

Abstract

An imaging sensor that is disposed in a vehicle is proposed, that sensor being configured in such a way that it performs a self-monitoring. This can be accomplished on the basis of the evaluation of invariant patterns or empirical knowledge about measurement signal profiles, by utilizing the redundancy of a network of sensors, or by utilizing time-related redundancy.

(Figure 3)